Changes in our schedule

die Berater® declines all responsibility in case of misprints and mistakes in writing in promotional literature as well as on the Internet. Furthermore, die Berater® reserves the right to change the schedule due to organisational reasons. Whether an event actually takes place or not, depends on there being a minimum number of participants.

Delivery and/or service delivery

Unless agreed otherwise, delivery and/or service delivery are carried out at the expense of and at the risk of the contractor. Partial delivery is possible. Complaints due to damage in transit must be made by the customer to the carrier/forwarding company and the contractor as soon as possible after receiving the goods and not later than eight days thereafter. Storage measures and the costs incurred by reasons for which the customer is responsible are entirely at the expense of the customer and count as effected delivery. Objectively justified and appropriate alterations of the contractor's obligation of performance and delivery are considered to be fully approved by the customer. Place of delivery and payment is the contractor's business location, unless another place has been agreed upon by both parties.

Prices

The prices quoted are in Euros and include turnover tax. The calculation of the contractor's prices is based upon prices current on the day of delivery.

Payment

The invoice is submitted before delivery of trainings and projects. Orders which comprise several items entitle the contractor to submit an invoice upon delivery and/or service delivery of each item. The customer is not entitled to delay payment due to incomplete delivery, complaints, or guarantee /warranty claims. The payments due to the contractor first include compound interest, interest and additional expenses, legal costs resulting from a lawsuit, such as a lawyer's and a debt collection agency's costs, and then the money owed, starting with the oldest debt. In case of failure to pay on due date the contractor charges interest on arrears as in normal banking procedure. In case of failure to pay two installments (if part payment was agreed upon), the contractor is entitled to claim losses in advance and to bring forward the maturity date of acceptances.

Copyrights

All products supplied by the contractor are – in whatever way they are delivered – copyright die Berater® 's. It is not allowed to copy them without written permission, to duplicate them, to hand them on to a third party, or to publish them in any kind of media.

Expenses for reminders and debt collection

In case of failure to pay on the due date, the customer/client is obliged to refund any costs that the contractor has incurred prior to a lawsuit, such as lawyers' fees or expenses of debt collection agencies. If the contractor itself has issued reminders, the customer/client is obliged to pay an amount of €15 per reminder in addition to other interests and expenses. Moreover, any further damage, especially damage caused by higher interest on any contractor's credit accounts through failure to pay, has to be covered by the client/customer, regardless of who is responsible for the failure to pay on due date.

Warranty, guarantee, and liability

The contractor is obliged, under its guarantee or liability, to correct any faults of the subject matter of a contract that existed at the moment of handing it over within the six months following the delivery and/or service delivery, at his own choice, at the place of delivery, either through repair, exchange free of charge, or a credit note whilst taking back the faulty subject matter of contract. The customer must issue a written notice of defect without any delay and not later than 30 days following the delivery and/or service delivery. The contractor disclaims all liability for other legal consequences of any faults of the subject matter of a contract. A guarantee service exceeding the usual frame of a guarantee may be arranged, to which the general business conditions mentioned here apply. The contractor is only liable for damage if it is found guilty of gross negligence or was intentionally negligent. The contractor is not liable for any subsequent damage or financial damage, particularly if they are due to delay, impossibility of service delivery, a lost opportunity for profit, expected but unmade bargains, damage resulting from claims of a third party against the customer/client, indirect damage as well as damage to recorded data if legally permitted.

Counterbalancing

Balancing a counterclaim of the customer/client against claims of the contractor may not be carried out, unless this counterclaim has been ascertained judicially or accepted in writing by the contractor.

Force majeure

Force majeure or other unforeseen hindrances in the contractor's sphere release him/her from meeting the obligations agreed upon. Operational or traffic disturbances in the sphere of the customer/client count as force majeure as well and release the contractor from the service delivery for the duration of the hindrance. This does not result in any claims for reduced prices for the customer/client.

Venue and applicable law

Should there be any law-suit, the competent court is the court nearest to the contractor's office. Austrian substantive law is in force. The applicability of UN purchasing law is not possible. For all lawsuits arising from a contract against a consumer, whose domicile, place of residence, or place of work is in Austria, the competent courts is one in whose circuit the consumer's domicile, place of residence, or place of work is located.

Final provisions

The provisions mentioned here are only valid if the consumer protection law does not provide different regulations. The customer/client has to report any changes of his/her address to the contractor immediately. To make the text more easily readable the terms used here have generally been expressed according to gender. All offers of service and delivery do not carry any gender bias and are equally addressed to ladies and gentlemen. The invalidity of an individual provision of these business conditions does not in any way effect the validity of other provisions.
